

Denzil's Tire Shop

By Mary Jane Turner Jex

This is my dad's original Den's Tire Shop and it was on East State Road and was demolished when they put the freeway through. It was just East past the new road they put in to the Lehi Roller Mills. It was moved to 180 West State Road.

When you mention the bumping of the monument, a friend of Dad's offered anyone coffee and donuts who would chip the monument so they would have to move it. They installed it right in the middle of my dad's driveway and when the State vehicles tried to get in to the bays it was like trying to put a semi in a space made for a Volkswagen.

The whole thing was like a joke because who puts a monument right in the middle of someone's driveway to a business? Dad told them they could put in front of the small side of the building but they wanted it where they wanted it.